Dear "W. West":—

How long has it been since I began a letter this way, or rather of the latter hand less the "dear" ?—?

Dearest, honest, we have traveled at a fearful rate, just think, it has been only four months since "Maft day";—

"Gracious me," it seems that I have known you for years.

Whose fault is it that we

and so fast-?
It looks as though we have shored our own affairs with the same
"rush," that we have any business, we have undertaken- I am surprised at my-self.

as you say, "we must 'bide'
our time," so in the future if I seem a little "distant" don't worry, for, I have
"shored" down, by the "heavy brakes I've put on," when time come to "go on" I'll be my old self again.

Dearest my very soul and heart aches tonight, I don't know why, but I can't be happy, to save my life.
